

Recovery-Oriented Systems of Care

Learner guide | SWP-009 | School of Substance Use & Addiction Recovery

This guide supports a three-part learning sequence for Recovery-Oriented Systems of Care. By the end of the course, you should be able to coordinate strengths-based, long-term recovery supports across systems.

Practice notice: Apply the law, organisational policy, supervision requirements, and approved referral pathways that govern your setting. This material supports learning and does not replace urgent safeguarding, clinical, or legal procedures.

Learning objectives

- Coordinate strengths-based, long-term recovery supports across systems.
- Apply the key ideas from Recovery orientation.
- Apply the key ideas from Coordinated support.
- Apply the key ideas from Sustaining recovery.

Course structure

Module	Focus	Suggested study time
1. Recovery orientation	recovery capital, person-defined goals, peer support, and anti-stigma practice	10 to 15 minutes
2. Coordinated support	housing, employment, family, health, legal, and community supports	10 to 15 minutes
3. Sustaining recovery	relapse-prevention planning, continuity of care, outcome monitoring, and lived-experience leadership	10 to 15 minutes

Module 1 Recovery orientation

This module focuses on recovery capital, person-defined goals, peer support, and anti-stigma practice. Work through the material with a current practice setting in mind, but remove identifying information from any examples you record.

What to pay attention to

- Recovery capital
- Person-defined goals
- Peer support
- Anti-stigma practice

Learning sequence

Start by defining the purpose of recovery orientation in relation to the course outcome. Notice where professional judgement is needed and where a local procedure must guide the next step.

Examine the practical implications of recovery capital, person-defined goals, peer support, and anti-stigma practice. Separate observations from assumptions, identify strengths as well as concerns, and be clear about information that must be checked with a person, family, colleague, or approved source.

Use a respectful, collaborative approach. Explain your role, seek informed participation where appropriate, and document only information that is relevant, accurate, and necessary for the purpose of the work.

When a concern exceeds your role, supervision, competence, or authority, pause and use the correct escalation route. A prompt referral and a clear handover can protect continuity of support.

Practice reflection

Choose a de-identified practice situation. What information would help you work through recovery orientation safely, and what would require consultation or a local policy check?

Module 2 Coordinated support

This module focuses on housing, employment, family, health, legal, and community supports. Work through the material with a current practice setting in mind, but remove identifying information from any examples you record.

What to pay attention to

- Housing
- Employment
- Family
- Health
- Legal
- Community supports

Learning sequence

Start by defining the purpose of coordinated support in relation to the course outcome. Notice where professional judgement is needed and where a local procedure must guide the next step.

Examine the practical implications of housing, employment, family, health, legal, and community supports. Separate observations from assumptions, identify strengths as well as concerns, and be clear about information that must be checked with a person, family, colleague, or approved source.

Use a respectful, collaborative approach. Explain your role, seek informed participation where appropriate, and document only information that is relevant, accurate, and necessary for the purpose of the work.

When a concern exceeds your role, supervision, competence, or authority, pause and use the correct escalation route. A prompt referral and a clear handover can protect continuity of support.

Practice reflection

Choose a de-identified practice situation. What information would help you work through coordinated support safely, and what would require consultation or a local policy check?

Module 3 Sustaining recovery

This module focuses on relapse-prevention planning, continuity of care, outcome monitoring, and lived-experience leadership. Work through the material with a current practice setting in mind, but remove identifying information from any examples you record.

What to pay attention to

- Relapse-prevention planning
- Continuity of care
- Outcome monitoring
- Lived-experience leadership

Learning sequence

Start by defining the purpose of sustaining recovery in relation to the course outcome. Notice where professional judgement is needed and where a local procedure must guide the next step.

Examine the practical implications of relapse-prevention planning, continuity of care, outcome monitoring, and lived-experience leadership. Separate observations from assumptions, identify strengths as well as concerns, and be clear about information that must be checked with a person, family, colleague, or approved source.

Use a respectful, collaborative approach. Explain your role, seek informed participation where appropriate, and document only information that is relevant, accurate, and necessary for the purpose of the work.

When a concern exceeds your role, supervision, competence, or authority, pause and use the correct escalation route. A prompt referral and a clear handover can protect continuity of support.

Practice reflection

Choose a de-identified practice situation. What information would help you work through sustaining recovery safely, and what would require consultation or a local policy check?

Course activity

Use the accompanying worksheet to apply the course sequence to a short case. Your completed activity should show what you noticed, the action you would take within your role, and what you would escalate or verify locally.

Assessment preparation

- Review the distinction between: recovery principles.
- Review the distinction between: peer roles.
- Review the distinction between: whole-system coordination.

References and local adaptation

- SWEEP Academy Course Content Outlines, production blueprint for this course.
- The current legislation, professional standards, safeguarding procedures, and referral directories for the delivery jurisdiction.
- The learner's employer or placement policy, supervision arrangements, and documentation standards.