

Long-Term Disaster Recovery Support

Learner guide | SWP-027 | School of Disaster Response & Crisis Intervention

This guide supports a three-part learning sequence for Long-Term Disaster Recovery Support. By the end of the course, you should be able to support equitable long-term recovery and community resilience after an emergency.

Practice notice: Apply the law, organisational policy, supervision requirements, and approved referral pathways that govern your setting. This material supports learning and does not replace urgent safeguarding, clinical, or legal procedures.

Learning objectives

- Support equitable long-term recovery and community resilience after an emergency.
- Apply the key ideas from Recovery over time.
- Apply the key ideas from Case and community support.
- Apply the key ideas from Resilience and evaluation.

Course structure

Module	Focus	Suggested study time
1. Recovery over time	displacement, livelihoods, grief, service disruption, inequity, and community leadership	10 to 15 minutes
2. Case and community support	housing, benefits, mental-health referrals, child protection, and participation	10 to 15 minutes
3. Resilience and evaluation	recovery indicators, feedback, preparedness learning, and sustainable partnerships	10 to 15 minutes

Module 1 Recovery over time

This module focuses on displacement, livelihoods, grief, service disruption, inequity, and community leadership. Work through the material with a current practice setting in mind, but remove identifying information from any examples you record.

What to pay attention to

- Displacement
- Livelihoods
- Grief
- Service disruption
- Inequity
- Community leadership

Learning sequence

Start by defining the purpose of recovery over time in relation to the course outcome. Notice where professional judgement is needed and where a local procedure must guide the next step.

Examine the practical implications of displacement, livelihoods, grief, service disruption, inequity, and community leadership. Separate observations from assumptions, identify strengths as well as concerns, and be clear about information that must be checked with a person, family, colleague, or approved source.

Use a respectful, collaborative approach. Explain your role, seek informed participation where appropriate, and document only information that is relevant, accurate, and necessary for the purpose of the work.

When a concern exceeds your role, supervision, competence, or authority, pause and use the correct escalation route. A prompt referral and a clear handover can protect continuity of support.

Practice reflection

Choose a de-identified practice situation. What information would help you work through recovery over time safely, and what would require consultation or a local policy check?

Module 2 Case and community support

This module focuses on housing, benefits, mental-health referrals, child protection, and participation. Work through the material with a current practice setting in mind, but remove identifying information from any examples you record.

What to pay attention to

- Housing
- Benefits
- Mental-health referrals
- Child protection
- Participation

Learning sequence

Start by defining the purpose of case and community support in relation to the course outcome. Notice where professional judgement is needed and where a local procedure must guide the next step.

Examine the practical implications of housing, benefits, mental-health referrals, child protection, and participation. Separate observations from assumptions, identify strengths as well as concerns, and be clear about information that must be checked with a person, family, colleague, or approved source.

Use a respectful, collaborative approach. Explain your role, seek informed participation where appropriate, and document only information that is relevant, accurate, and necessary for the purpose of the work.

When a concern exceeds your role, supervision, competence, or authority, pause and use the correct escalation route. A prompt referral and a clear handover can protect continuity of support.

Practice reflection

Choose a de-identified practice situation. What information would help you work through case and community support safely, and what would require consultation or a local policy check?

Module 3 Resilience and evaluation

This module focuses on recovery indicators, feedback, preparedness learning, and sustainable partnerships. Work through the material with a current practice setting in mind, but remove identifying information from any examples you record.

What to pay attention to

- Recovery indicators
- Feedback
- Preparedness learning
- Sustainable partnerships

Learning sequence

Start by defining the purpose of resilience and evaluation in relation to the course outcome. Notice where professional judgement is needed and where a local procedure must guide the next step.

Examine the practical implications of recovery indicators, feedback, preparedness learning, and sustainable partnerships. Separate observations from assumptions, identify strengths as well as concerns, and be clear about information that must be checked with a person, family, colleague, or approved source.

Use a respectful, collaborative approach. Explain your role, seek informed participation where appropriate, and document only information that is relevant, accurate, and necessary for the purpose of the work.

When a concern exceeds your role, supervision, competence, or authority, pause and use the correct escalation route. A prompt referral and a clear handover can protect continuity of support.

Practice reflection

Choose a de-identified practice situation. What information would help you work through resilience and evaluation safely, and what would require consultation or a local policy check?

Course activity

Use the accompanying worksheet to apply the course sequence to a short case. Your completed activity should show what you noticed, the action you would take within your role, and what you would escalate or verify locally.

Assessment preparation

- Review the distinction between: long-term needs.
- Review the distinction between: equity.
- Review the distinction between: coordination.
- Review the distinction between: resilience.

References and local adaptation

- SWEEP Academy Course Content Outlines, production blueprint for this course.
- The current legislation, professional standards, safeguarding procedures, and referral directories for the delivery jurisdiction.
- The learner's employer or placement policy, supervision arrangements, and documentation standards.